

USC CENTER FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING

TEACHING IN A DIVERSE CLASSROOM

Where: Hedco Neuroscience Building (HNB), Room 100

When: Wednesday, March 5, 2008

12-1:30 PM

Who: Open to all Faculty, Staff and Students

RSVP: uscet@usc.edu, subject line: Diversity

In this workshop, Sarah Banet-Weiser will discuss the various ways in which a classroom can be “diverse,” ranging from a diverse student body, to topical diversity, to interdisciplinarity. The challenges and possibilities of teaching in a diverse classroom, as well as strategies for dealing with potential obstacles that might emerge, will be discussed. Students are encouraged to bring in personal experiences to contribute to the workshop.

Presenter:

Sarah Banet-Weiser is an Associate Professor in the School of Communication at the Annenberg School for Communication. Her teaching and research interests include feminist theory, race and the media, children's media, popular culture, and national identity. She teaches courses in the Entertainment track of the Communication curriculum, including classes on children and the media, and gender and communication.

For additional information, please contact Nicole Ball at uscet@usc.edu or 213-740-3959