Subject: President C. L. Max Nikias Inauguration

C. L. Max Nikias will be formally installed as USC's president on Friday, October 15, on the University Park Campus. We hope you will take an active role in this ceremony, and that you will encourage your colleagues to participate as well.

As you know, the faculty of USC forms the core of the university and carries out its vital missions of teaching and research. As you march in the inaugural procession, you will affirm the key academic values that bind us together as a scholarly and creative community and constitute the very foundation of this great university.

Classes will be held as scheduled on the day of the inauguration. However, faculty whose classes overlap with the ceremonies on that day may use their discretion to cancel the class.

Transportation to and from the University Park campus will be provided to those on the Health Sciences campus.
