

USC Leonard Davis School of Gerontology

Job Posting: SEIU
November 15, 2006

Job Position: Senior Legislative Assistant

Job Description:

Progressive grassroots membership organization seeks an individual to lobby on long-term care issues. Successful candidate will have excellent analytical and writing skills with ability to think creatively and objectively to identify federal legislative opportunities to advance rebalancing and reform agenda and work proactively to ensure workforce and quality issues are part of any reform of long-term care system. Competitive salary, plus generous benefits, and positive and innovative work environment.

Duties:

Job duties include working with research and policy team in preparing position papers and briefing materials, assisting in drafting Congressional testimony, responding to proposed regulations, and otherwise helping to develop and implement innovative long-term care public policy.

Qualifications:

Desired individual would have knowledge of Medicare and Medicaid programs, including state waiver process, pay for performance; and work experience on relevant health care Congressional Committees. Bachelor's Degree required, Master's preferred, 5 years direct policy analysis experience on Capitol Hill, government agency, or health related organization/association. Strong written, analytical, oral and interpersonal skills required.

Contact:

Please submit all required information to goldberl@seiu.org.
People of color and women are encouraged to apply.